Boot Camp: Basic training on self-determination and the Texas Medicaid Waivers....

All the material was helpful and the exhibitors were friendly and helpful. I learned about the different waivers, self determination, and to use a budget.

- Austin

There is so much information it is real hard to separate it all right now. I would like to have attended another so maybe this would soak in more. Most valuable information – that the money goes with the consumer. It won't quit if they decide to move away to another county.

- Midland/Odessa

Learned that I can be my daughter's foster parent and the most valuable information learned is to have a goal and what kind of questions to ask.

- El Paso

Valuable information learned was the tips about providers, the importance of getting all necessary information to make right decisions according to personal needs. - El Paso

Discovered how to make better choices, and self-advocacy lets me know that I can make choices myself.

- South Houston

The waivers exist! We have choices and we have hope for our daughter living an independent future!

- Corpus Christi

Get assistance to get what you want and allowed to take risks. To be assertive and you can get what you want.

- Longview

This boot camp is excellent. It provides individuals and families information that will empower them to access and then use services. Saving this information before service implementation makes for better planning and a better experience culminating in individuals/families reaching their goals.
